EHOLD One of the Points, which it very much Becomes, and very much Concerns, A Preacher, to infift upon. And from what is falling out among us, in the Death of our Desireable Ones, it is now very Seafonable, and from the Seafon of it, it may come with a Special Cogency and Pungency, and fo most Profi ably, to be Preach'd upon.

It is an Article drop'd from the Pen of One, who tho' he were a Monarch, yet on the Occasion of the Book which yields our Text unto us Chuses to call himself. The Preacher. The Hebrew Term used for this, as One of the greatest Criticks for the Oriental Tongues in our Days has noted, Signifies, A Circle; or, a company of Men gathered together in the form of a Circle, That is to fay, A Congregation. The Book treats of Things, which it was the Defire of the Writer, to have understood by the whole Congregation; Yea, as a True Penitent, he is content, that his Repentance for the Errors of his Life, be Published in the whole Congregation. The Term that feems to carry, A Recollecting Soul, in it, leads One to look upon this Penitent, as Engaged in a work of Recollection; we have here what he found, and what he thought, upon a Recollection.

It has been Remark'd, That as GOD fuffered the Unbelief of Thomas, for the greater Confirmation of our Faith, by the Satisfaction which be received, So, GOD permitted Solomon to fall into very Faulty Senfualities, that fo from his dear-bought Experience and Recovery we may all be the more confirmation.

med in the Wisdom of Religion.
THE Design of, The Preacher, is, To shew

wherein

wherein the Chief Good of Man does Confift; and as One of the Ancients does Express the Thing, To fet the Mind above the Sense. He Reflects on the Various Things wherein Men of Corrupt Minds place their Happiness; and at the End of his Discourse on every One of them, he rejects them, as utterly Insufficient, utterly Insignificant. But he continues the search, until he finds where it lies; which at length he declares in this Epiphonema, Fear GOD, and Keep His Commandments; For this is the whole of Man.

THE Promiscuous Events, which happen to Dying Man, while he Lives in this Tranfitory World, are among the Things now reflected on. But, it feems, in the midst of these Promiscuous Events, which hold the Children of Men in a continual Uncertainty, there is One thing, which all Men may most certainly depend upon; The Living do know that they shall Dy. It had just before been afferted, That the Living have some Advantage above the Dead. The Argument thus brought for the Affertion seems a very Strange one; For the Living do know that they Shall Dy. But the Argument will be found a very Strong One, if you will observe where the Force of it lies. Because the Living do know that they shall Dy, therefore they will prepare prepare for Death, and by a wife preparation make fure of an Happy Death; which is a Thing that cannot be done after Death. Upon this Account, The Living are better of it than the Dead.

You may be fure, that I shall anon resume this Consideration. In the mean time, I bring you this Doctrine, as what is at no Time Unworthy or Improper for us to hearken to, but what our GOD at this Time gives us, a very particular call, to hearken to.

EVERT Man Alive, may know, and should know, that he is to Dy.

THERE is no Living Man, but what may know, and should know himself to be a Dying Man! Tho' no Man ordinarily does know When he is to Dy, or How he is to Dy, yet every Man may Assuredly Know this, That he is to Dy, and he should affectuously know it. Let a Man be never so Ignorant of other Things, & be there never so many Millions of Things which he does not Know, yet this he may know most certainly, That he is to Dy: He should Know it most Seriously. An Ignorance of this, would be a Bruitsshoes, below what the Beasts of the Field are sunkinto.

'Tis a very plain Truth which we are now upon.

npon. And it looks like a Satyr upon, a Senseless World, that fuch a Plain Truth should need any Inculcations. But, alas, they are Needful: And I shall now Study, that they may be as Ufeful.

THE Plain Truth shall have Two Enquiries made upon it. bennew and one stade I mave

W E will Enquire, and of the your

First. How MAY it be Known by the Living, That they are to Dy?

I. O EVERY Living Man, Hear the word of the Everliving GOD: Hear what the GOD of thy Life, does in His Word Speak unto thee. Thou mayst Know That thou shalt Dy; Inasmuch as the GOD who now holds thy Soul in Life, has told thee, Thou shalt Dy and not Live. We have that Word of GOD for it; Pfal. LXXXIX. 48. What Man is be that Liveth, and shall not see Death? We have that Word of GOD for it; Heb. IX. 27. It is appointed for Men once to Dy. The Word of GOD, which miscalls nothing, has call'd Men, by the Name of Mortal Men. Tho the Word of GOD has affur'd us, That the Fear of GOD renderh to Life, yet we are also affur'd in the Word of GOD, That Good Men as well as others, must undergo the Stroke of Death. It is a famous Passage; Job XIV. a. Man that is born of a Woman, is of Few Days. By.

By. Man that is born of a Woman, Some have understood that Religious and Regenerate Part of Mankind, who at the Beginning of the Bible are called. The Seed of the Woman; and those who Believe in Him that is the Principal and Promised Seed of the Woman. Even, These are thus warned of GOD, That they must see but a Few Days in this World, and those Few must be Evil Ones. The Wrath of GOD against Sin, first pronounced the Doom of Death upon us; And yet, the First Man that ever Dyed, was a Favourite of GOD. We have the Law of Death declared in those Lively Oracles, by that GOD, in whose Hand our Breath is, and whose are all our ways A Law, a thousand times more unalterable, than any One of the Medes and Persians : A Law, which upon Thousands, and Myriads, and Millions, has been already Executed. Let us go to the Law and to the Testimony. 'Tis in Gen. III. 19. Dust thou art, and unto Dust thou shalt Return. It was the faying of the Renowned Arabian Judge; Job XXX,23. I know, that thou wilt bring me to Death; It may be rendred, I know, Thou wilt Return me to Death, It feems a Reference, and an Allufion to that ancient Law of Death. Fob feems to fay, I am Dust, and I shall Return to Dust. Our Frame is broke, and spoilt by our Sin. Death is by the Law

Law of GOD, the Penalty of our Sin. We are all involved in the First Sin of the First Man. Sin is the Sting of Death. 'Tis by our Sin, that we are Stung to Death. Indeed, the Second Adam will deliver us from the Death which the First Adam has brought upon us. But this Deliverance will be by a Resurredion of the Dead. The Word of GOD forbids all Imagination of Immunity from the Stroke of Death, until the Second Adam, who is to Raife the Dead, shall come, and Change, and Judge the World. Then indeed, There shall be no more Death. A Translation, without any Dying, will be the Portion of the Saints, by whom the New Earth shall be Inhabited, and Cultivated. But until that approaching Revolution, which Oh! That our GOD would baften it - I fay until then, Death will be, Josh. XXIII. 14. The way of all the Earth.

II. YEA, O Man, Dost thou not know, That all the Men who have ever Lived, in the former Generations, have Died before thee? And all in thy own are Dying about thee! What! So many Dead, and Thou never to Dy! O Doting Folly! O Raving Madness! Epidemical Experience gives the Living to Know, That they shall Dy. If all Mankind in every Age has Dyed before us, and is Dying B every Day about us, what an Extravagancy would it be for any of us to dream. That we shall escape the Common Lot of Mankind? We read, Eccl. I.4. One Generation passetb away, and another Generation cometh. Yea, and the Generation that cometh, we see also puffing away. I repeat the Demand made of old. Tour Fathers, where are they? Since they do not Live for ever, furely, The Living do know that they shall dy, There have never been ahove Two, that have escaped for more than Five Thousand Years that have rolled away. fince the Day that GOD made Man upon the Earth. The Empire of Death, we fee, 'tis an Universal Monarchy. The King of Terrors has his Empire Extended fo far, that he always has the Sun, both Rifing and Setting in his Dominions. On the whole Face of the Earth, we will suppose, there may be between Four and Five Hundred Millions of People. In a few Years, there will not be One of them left. When a Few Years are past and gone, These (like Xerxes's Army) will all begone. And what is become of them who Peopled the Earth in the Former Ages? Death, Death, has melted them all away, As Drought and Heat Consume the Snow-water. The Antediluvians are not the only Ones, who at last have had their Story, (As a Tale that is told!) fo wound wound up; And he died! And he died! We Read, Eecles. VII. 2. That is the end of all Men; and the living will lay it to his heart. Oh! That we did fo! Oh! That there were such an Heart in us! Our Sinful Earth has never yet afforded any Priviledged Place unto the Children of Men, where the Arrest of Death could not come at them. Have any been exempted for their Holinefs? No; The Holy Moses must have it said, Moses my Servant is dead. This First Death is not the Death from whence Righteoufness will always deliver. Has Courage done it? No; David is dead. Has Vigour done it? No; Sampson is dead. Has Wisdom done it; No; Solomon is dead. Has Riches done it? No; Abasuerus is dead. It is no new thing, to hear it faid, The Rich Mandied and was buried. Have the best Qualities imaginable preserved any Man Invuluerable; that the Arrows of Death should not come at him? No, As Ufeful, as Humble, as Lovely a Man as Paul, must have, A Time of Departure. A Man as dear to Our SAVIOUR, as His Apostle Peter, must put off this Earthly Tabernacle. And they too, whose Profession it is, To Keep others Alive; even these are not suffered to continue by reason of Death. Every Generation feels the fulfilment of that Prophecy; Ifa. XX IV 7. Behold,

10 Undoubted Certainties.

The Lord makes the Earth empty: 'Tis emptyed of all its old Inhabitants.

To render this Meditation a little the more Impressive; pass over the several Streets of our Neighbourhood, call to mind, who lived in such a place, and who in such a place, but a few Years ago. And, Where are they now? They are Gone! They are Gone! Death has carried them off unto the Eternal World. The places that have known them, now know them no more. By this, the Living do know, that they also shall Dye. We cannot but know, that we shall go after them. We know nothing, we are deprived of our Senses, if we don't make that Conclusion, Isa. XX. 6. And how shall we Escape?

III. YEA, O Man, does thou not feel thy felf a dying? Do not the Living Feel that in their own Constitution, from whence they may Know that they shall Dye? O my dying Friends, The deadly Blow is already Struck; Death has already seized upon us; every Day we may feel Death growing upon us. It is got in at our Windows. We suck it in with the Air we breath in. What are all our Bodily Distempers, but so many advances of Death? In all the Maladies with which we are Distempered, tempered, we have Death hacking & hewing down our Earthly Tahernacle. The Enemy has broken in, and is breaking down the Carved work thereof, with Axes and Hammers.

IT was the Speech of Job, Thou dissolvest my Substance. Upon This he adds, I know that thou wilt bring me to Death. It feems, He knew it from this; He found a Dissolution already begun upon him. And fo truly may we all. If the Living will but argue from what they Feel, they may Know, that they shall Dy. It was a Parable of the Ancients: A Man made an Agreement with Death, never to call for him till he had first Warned him of it. At length, Death does call for him; and the Man Expolfulates, That he was not Warned according to Agreement. Say not for replies Death, Say not so! Did not your Head ake fuch a Day? Did not your Side ake fuch a Day? And Such a Day was not your Stomach out of order? Those, those are the Warnings that I use to give. O Living People, If these be the Warnings of Death, You may know, That you Shall Dy. These Warnings reach to every One of you all. More or less we all have some Touches now and then upon our Health; and most of us have, like Timothy, our Often Infirmities. We dy, if we do not ever now and then go to Sleep. This very Sleep, what is it but but a Lively Image of Death? How Reafonable would it be for us, to fall Afleep, with fuch Contemplations; I know these Eyes must (hortly be closed by Death! And, I know, I must sportly ly down in the Grave! Our Bread is the Staff of Life. If it were not for that Staff. we should soon fall down, unto the Earth, into the Earth from whence we have our Bread. Will it always keep us from Falling? No, were it Manna it felf, it must anon be said, They did Eat it, and are Dead. A Great part of the Food on which we Live, is the Flesh of Dead Creatures. We have Death dish'd out to us, on our Tables. O Feed, not without this Fear, I know I cannot Live always on the Dead ! I know Dead Creatures can't fave me always from Death. By fuch Means as thefe, the Living may know. What indeed every One cannot but know. Yea, but will an Unaffelling, an Ineffellual, a Not Operative Knowledge be sufficient! By no Means!

W E will Enquire,
Secondly. How SHOULD it be Known by the Living, That they are to Dy?

I. THE Living do know, that they shall Dy; But, Oh! That we did so Know it, as to Live in a Daily Expediation of Death. A Good Man could say, I Cor. XV. 31. I Dy daily. One thing thing in Dying daily, is to Live, with some suspicious Expectation every day, That this may be the Day of our Death. I do not fay, That a Man should Live every day, as if he knew it were to be the Day of his Death. The S rain of fuch an Expression should be mended. We may very Truly, and Fairly, and Juftly thus Express it ; We should Live every day, as not knowing, but that it may be the Day of our Death. The Living who do Know that they shall Dy, may yet say with him; Gen. XXVII. 2. I know not the Day of my Death. Inafmuch as we do Know, that we shall Dy, but GOD has not made known unto us, the Time, we shall Dy we ought always to Live Expecting of it. We do not know, but that this Hour may be the Time. Every Prayer we make, we may think, It may be, this is the Last Prayer that ever I shall make. Every Sermon we hear, we may think, It may be, this is the Last Sermon that ever I shall hear. Every Time we are Conversing with One another, we may think, It may be, this is the Last Conversation. And every Day, we may think; Tis possible, I may not Live to another Day. Such Thoughts, they should be very Frequent with us. It looks, as if we did not know, that we shall by, if such Thoughts are not very frequent with us. ENT IL these Three Points be profesive

II. THE Living do know, that they shall Dy: But, Oh! that we did fokn wit, as to make while we Live, a Thorough Preparation for Death. It is the counfil of Heaven unto us; Mat. XXIV. 44. Be ye Ready. Since we do know, that we shall Dy, we should be diligent in making Ready for the Dying Hour. And Verily, The Longest Life, is little Enough to be all spent in naking Ready for Death. Death Oh! it requires a mighty Preparation. We ought Immediate y, I say, Immediately, to make fure of it, That when we Dy, we shall not pass into an Eternal Wreichedness; That our Death be not the Trap door to Let us down into Wretched, and Woful, and Hopeless confusion. And what is it, that will Prepare us for reath? In One Word Nothing hut a Real and Hearty CONVERSION to GOD: Or, A Principle of PIETY, wherein we shall Begin to Live unto GOD before we Dy : Or, That whereof you are advised, Phil. I. 6. GOD has begun a GOOD WORK in you.

Briefly, This Apprehension, That we shall Dy, should animate us, Presently & Earnestly to Do, what must be done, that we may not be Miserable at our Death. And there are especially Three Points, which our Safety, and our Comfort at our Death will turn upon. O Living Man, Knowing that thou art by nd by to Dy, Let these Three Points be prosecuted.

Immediately.

The First Thing to be done, is this; With a Confession of thy Sins, and of the Terrible Destruction deserved by thy Sins, importunately plead the Sacrifice of thy SAVIOUR, to be delivered from all the Wrath of Heaven which thy Sins Expose thee to; and plead the Righteousness of thy SAVIOUR, that so thou may staffer thy Death inherit the Bleffedness of the Righteous. Ask for this Faith, which is the Gift of GOD, and then Try where ther it be not given thee.

The Second Thing to be done, is this; Get thy Enmity to GOD subdued; the Image of Satan extirpated out of thy Soul, and the Image of GOD introduced into it: A New, Gracious, Divine Biass given to thy Soul, that shall Incline thee to every Thing that is Holy and Just and Good; The Love of GOD, and of thy Neighbour Planted in thy Mind, as a Root that shall prove a Tree of Life unto thee, in the Paradise of GOD, after thy Death has transplanted thee. Cry to GOD for This, till thou art upon Trial sensible that He has heard thy (ry, & Quickened thee from Above.

The Third Thing to be done, is this; Walkwith GOD in such a Course of Obedience, and such a Care to Keep a Conscience void of Offence, that thy Evidences for Everlasting Life may be kept clear, and the sudden Approach of Death may not make thee Afraid with any Amazement: Keep thy Soul in fuch an Heavenly Frame, that no fudden Approach of Death may find thee indisposed for the Heavenly World.

III. THE Living do Know that they shall Dy, but Oh! that we did so Knowit, as to Do Now, what we shall Wish to have done, when we come to Dy. Our Death will bring us to a Right Sense of Things; Oh! That we may be brought unto it, by our Sense of This, That we are to Ty. Men have the Clearest Sight of Things, when they have the Dimness of the Shadow of Death fitting upon their Eyelids. The Thoughts of a Dying Man are usually the Soundert and the Truest Thoughts of his Life. We do Know, that we shall Dy: But now let us add the most finished Wisdom unto this Knowledge. We are so advised; Deut.XXXII.29. Oh! that they were wife, that they understood this, that they wuld consider their Latter End. There is the most Confummate Wisdom, with such as are so welladvised, as to Consider, what we shall in the Latter End, with most grievous and irksome Regret look back upon; and now Avoid those things: To Confider, what we shall in the Latter End with unspeakable Pleasure look hack upon; and now Perform those things. O Man, while thou art yet a Living Man. Consider what will strow Thorns in thy Deathbed, and what will fill thy Death-bed with Foys; and order thy Life accordingly. Suppose thy felf in thy Last Agonies; Thy Breath failing; Thy Throat rattling; Thy Eyes with a difmal Cloud upon them; Thy Hands with a Clammy Sweat upon them; and the Turn of the Tide waited for, as the Term of thy Expiration. Confider O my Soul, what would I wish to have done, or to have left undone, at such a Critical Time as this! Because the Living does Know, that he shall Dy, Let every One that Lives, Regulate his Life, by fuch Sentiments; which the Children of Wildom will for ever Justity.

IV. THE Living do Know, that they shall Dy: But we should so Know it, as to be Dead before we Dy. There is an Excellent Attainment which every Christian must aspire unto; Christian, T'wil be thy Life, to arrive unto it! Rom. VI. 8. Dead with CHRIST. Since we Know that we are to Dy it becomes us to anticipate our Death, with a Mort sication towards all the Things of this World, which at our Death we must part withal. We are first of all to become Dead unto Sin;

our Inclinations to Sin, must be so Dead, that we shall not, we durst not, Live in any known Sin. But more clearly; our Will is to Dy, and the Will of GOD must give Law to us instead of our own. This Death of thy Will, O Man, while thou art yet a Living Man, will be the Life of thy Soul. We have in us, a Will full of Unjust Appetites. We are Sav'd. when this Will of ours is Kill'd; and we come to that; Mar. XIV. 36. Father, Not what I will, but what thou wilt. What the Will of GOD requires from us in His Precept, This we must comply withal; utterly Suppressing all Propenfities of our own Will another way; and faying, Lord, Thy Commandments are not grievous! And what the Will of GOD orders for us in His Providence, we must submit unto it, and quiet those Troubles which rife in our Hearts, when things do not go as we would have them; with fuch a Submission as this, Let the Holy One do all His Pleafure. The Death which we must come to is this; O my GOD, and my SAVIOUR, I have no Will of my own, that I shall ever any more infist upon. How is it with the Dead in CHRIST? GOD is become All in All unto them. We are gloriously Dead, when we ask for nothing but GOD; and can be pleas'd with any thing that GOD shall please to give to us, that GOD shall please to do with us. To glorify GOD, with our own will Abolished, Extinguished, Annihilated; or to have our will governed by the Will of GOD, and even fwallowed up in it; and fo to he willing that GOD should Strip us of all that we Enjoy among the Living and even render us like the Dead, who have no more a Portion for ever in any thing thut is done under the Sun; This itis to Dy, as all they must, that would Live Eternally. The best Thing that we can wish for the best Friend which we have in the World, and which we are most fond of having stay with us in the World, is this; My Friend, Oh! That I could fee thee Dead! I long to see thee Dead! O! may the Living be Thus Dead! How easy would it be then for them to Dy, when their Time comes to Dy! Since we Know, that we shall Dy, Oh! Let us Dy into this Life of GOD, before we Dy! e you have the Moans of an Or-

APPLICATION.

AND NOW,

I. Do we Know, that We shall Dy? We then Know, that Ours also are to Dy. When our Friends Dy, we have no cause to wonder at it: We Know, 'tis what must be fal us all. It was urged of old, Quid absurdius quam ut id quod and scias Omnibus effe Prescriptum, quasi Speciale deplores? The Words are Ambrose's. Inasmuch as the Living do all Know, that they shall Dy, in the Death of our Friends, there happens nothing, but what All are to Meet withal. 'Tis from this, that there was that Inference made; I Cor. VII. 30. Those that Weep should be as the' they wept not. We have here a Spunge for our Tears; Our Griefs on the Death of our Friends have here a Moderation imposed on them. 'Tis proper for you, O Friends, to look for a Parting Time: To Live together, as those that must not always Live together. It at the driw with shire W E fee People every where Mourning over their Departed Friends. The Mourners go about the Streets. One Laments with Ezekiel, That he has Loft the Defire of his Eyes, with a Stroke. Another Laments with the Widow that came to Elifha, My Husband is dead. Here you have the Moans of an Orphan, like David, My Father and my Mother forfake me. Here you shall see a bereaved Parent, like, Rachel, Weeping for ber Children, and refusing to be comforted. Here the Sisters complain, like Mary and Martha, My Brother is dead. Here a Moses is afflicted, because he buries a Worthy Sifter. Why, Such Things are to be look'd for, The Living do Know, that they are fo. AY, Ay, Do we Know this? Then let us discharge our Duty to our Friends, before it comes to this. Let us do them all the Good that ever we can. Let our carriage to our Friends be such, that if they Dy before us, We may be able to look back with some Consolation on our Fidelity. Sirs, If a Soul Related unto us, be Snatched out of this World by Death, and we must own, that we never did any thing for the Salvation, or the Benefit of that Soul: Oh! the Anguish it must give, we cannot but Know that it will give, unto us!

THE Living do Know, that they shall Dy. Then Make Ready for it: First for our own Death; and then for the Death of ours; For we know not which may in the Race come first unto the Goal of Death.

II. THE Living do Know, that they shall Dy: But let us Rejoyce, in that we Know, That we have a Redeemer, who will one day Save us from Death, and again set us among the Living. One thing, that we Know, is a Melancholy Thing: Tis, That we shall Dy. But then, we Know another thing, that will make Amends for it; Even that Comfortable Thing; Job XIX.25. I know, that my Redeemer Lives; and in my Flesh I shall see GOD. O Welcome Tidings!

Tidings! O Joyful Tidings! What cause have we for those Acclamations, My Spirit will Rejoyce in GOD my SAVIOUR! The Children of GOD, in the Pays of the Old Testament, believed a Resurrection. GOD Promised them ashare in the Bleisings of the Kingdom of the Messiah, wherein He would be Their GOD. They Dyed before those Promifes were accomplished. Hence they inferr'd, That they must be Raised from the Dead. Their Faith was, GOD will Redeem my Soul from the Power of the Grave. But then, the Gospel of the New Testament, has more abundantly brought Life and Immortality to Light; a Resurrection to a Life of Immortality. For now, we have feen our Lord IESUS CHRIST Himself Risen to such a Life; and fo Rifen as to leave no Room for Doubt, that He will also Raise His Followers to such a Life. He has told us, He that believeth on me shall not Dy for ever; Tho' he Dy, he shall not ly Dead for ever: And we have in His Resurrection, a most Victorious Demonstration, that this Deliverer of Souls is a True Witness; we have not been Deceived by Him. We may then use those Anhelations; Psal. CI. 2. Oh! When wilt thou come unto me! Why should we not fay, with a Soul Triumphing over Death; 'Oh! When wilt than come, and

and make the Grave yield up her Dead; the Earth cast forth her Slain! When wilt thou come, to deliver the Lawful Captive, and the Prey of the Terrible? Rejoyce not against us, O our Enemy, DEATH; For tho we fall, we shall Rise again; when we sit in Darkness, the Lord shall be a Light unto us.

III. THE Living do Know, that they shall Dy. Oh! how should we labour to Know, that it will not be an Unbappy Death! For a Living Man, who Knows that he shall Dy, and for ought he Knows, it may be before To Morrow; for ought he Knows, it may be so, This Night, thy Soul required! For such a Man, to be Walking in such Grosser Darkness, that for ought he Knows, his Death may Lodge him in the Place of Dragons. O dreadful Condition! O rueful Condition! And yet, alas, This the Condition of the most in the World! Oh! My dear Neighbours, Do not Continue in it!

I refume, What I said, I would. Why are the Living better of it than the Dead? The Living do know, that they skall Dy. But then it is to be presumed, That the Living will make a proper use of this Knowledge; and Redeem their Time, Discern their Time, to get into fuch a Condition, that they may fay, My Death will be no Harm unto me!

THERE is a Knowledge of which it is affirmed, Joh. XVII. 3. This is Life Eternal. Certainly, They who Know, that they shall Dy, should press after such a Knowledge of GOD in our Lord JESUS CHRIST. Oh! Never give over, till we Know Him to be our GOD, and our SAVIOUR; till we Know that He will give us Life Eternal after Death.

What a fweet Knowledge is that? I Joh. III. 14. We know, that we are passed from Death to Life. Certainly, They who do know, that they shall Dy, should be follicitous, that they may have upon them the Infallible MARKS of Souls Passed from Death to Life. O Living Ones, who know that you shall Dy, Be at no Rest until you can say, I know, that I have CHRIST for my Life, and I shall have Gain by my Death. Be at no Rest until you can say, I know, that I Live by the Faith of the Son of GOD, who bath Loved me!

or remain One day longer without those Necessary Things, which the Word of GOD calls, The Evident Tokens of Salvation.

BE

Be Restless, till you are able to say; I am come to This; That I make it the main Design and Business of my Life, to Glorify GOD with Perpetual Acknowledgments; To Serve and Please the Glorious GOD, and walk as having His Eye upon me; and Acknowledge Him in all my Ways.

BE Restless, till you are able to say; 'I am come to This; That I do not indulge in my self any Ill Frame towards my Neighbour; but heartily wish him Well, heartily do him Good; heartily Study to deal by bim, as I would allow him to deal by me.

BE Restless till you are able to say; 'I am come to This; That the Galls of the Gospel are become Effectual to me. When I am called upon, To Renounce my Idols, with all my Vanities, and Embrace my SAVIOUR, in all His Offices, and Resign my self up, to be Possessed by the Holy Spirit of GOD, my Soul can say, I do most sincerely Consent unto all of this.

O Be Earnest, O Be Speedy, in making this Provision for Death, All you who do Know, that you shall Dy. O Let none of you Delay to provide for this, That your D 2

Death may not find you in your Sins, but that you may be found in CHRIST, and be found of Him in Peace at His Coming.

ALL that now remains, is, To Drop and Leave this Awakening Word upon the Auditory; If any of you, O our dear People, are found Unprepared for Death, when you are overtaken with it, you will be of all People, the most Inexcufable!

But the more Inexcusable, because of the Counsils and Warnings which our Glorious GOD has in the Works of His Providence dispensed unto us. Oh! Let us not be found among those, who Regard not the works of the Lord, nor the Operation of His Hands.

YEA, those who may not Speak in the Church, does our Glorious Lord Employ to Speak: to Speak by us, and Speak by what we fee in them, such Things as we ought certainly to take much Notice of.

Mrs. ABIGAIL SEWALL, the Confort of the Honourable Judge
SEWALL.

A Gracious Handmaid of the Lord, is lately gone from us, who by her Serious PIETY, most affectionately Chasing that Good Part

Part that She found with and in her SAVI-OUR; by a Singular Goodness of Temper, which Endeared her to Every One, and adorned her Profession; and by a zealous Delight and Study to be a Blessing in the Relations which GOD assign'd unto her; Spoke while she Lived, and being Dead She yet Speaks; as One among the Patterns, which the Daughters of Zion owe a Respect unto.

But then History mentions an Excellent Person who dying very Suddenly; was sound sitting Dead in his Chair. Some would have made a Rash Interpretation of it. But GOD ordered it, that he was found with a Book lying open before him, and his Finger Pointing to those words; Whatever Death a Righteous One may be prevented withal, yet he shall be in Rest.

This Vertuous Woman, has Dyed very Suddenly. And by a very Sudden Death, — but unto fuch a Prepared Soul what an Happy Death! — She has also Spoken This unto us. My Friends, You may be Well One Day, Dead the Next! Well at Supper, Dead before Midnight. Oh! Be ye always Ready. Immediately get into fuch Good Terms with Heaven, that you may Dy Rejoycing in the Hope of the Glory
