Jan. 17th. 1838 Wednesd evening 5 o'clock. Dreadfull cold, 24 degrees. Deeply affected on account of the scantiness of enquirers. The Tuesday evenings were so scanty before: Schwen, Henske, Wiess, Hartlag II, P. Hof, Augustus, Kirkner, Eckardt, Reinhard & two more. In the lecture today some few folks here & there dispersed, & John 45 from 110 come.
The sermon last Sunday scantily attended. There must be acknowledged some influence of the cold, but that does not explain all. The only new enquirer I may mention is Schmude & he is more a follower of Erdmann. When I came lately from Greiner & had talked with him about Lücke & Baurmayer. all seemed bright to me, & now B. has met with a refusal & as to L. I am without prospect. I cannot however forbear mentioning the joy that Müller is released, provided it be not again a lie. — I am now 39 years, soon 40, therefore support K's d's support. I felt in my heart quite ready to submit to all dealings of the Lord & a great confidence to his goodness.

Jan. 31 1838 Tuesday 38. Last night informed that Præm met with a repulse & Böhme VII, the arbitrariness & partiality of Yes. vexed me most pungently, Baumg. departed, read the review of my Hebrew in Rheinm., found in it the impressions Schultz had left upon the work, most deeply grieved at the injustice of the world. I am the more painful thing to find myself misunderstood & reproved by the whole world. But who she had received the letter of Müller in which he informs me of his final enlargement: O says he what a feeling after 3 years to be quite free! How deeply I feel it with him, yes a burden is taken from my heart since this took place, but oh that I might see my yearning of the heart fulfilled & could see him placed at my side in my convenient situation!

3 Feb. Saturday evening, after having taken a walk with Davies & lectured on Encyclopaedia. At 11 heard from Trilo that Hass will come: well I dare not be sorry beforehand, for it can happen as with Billroth, only I must apprehend that now Niem's denunciation is certain. At 11 a walk with Edman who was most kind & friendly, I felt love for him & must confide in him without limitation. Asked him about Schauen: Conradi says, Immer ein welche last for there is always a Gegensatz zwischen dem da, daher ein bezagliches Schauen wie Gott, Edm: die Momente des Glaubens in des Demons du die höchsten Sinn als ewig.

Monday 27 Feb 58 Without any expectation so few have never come, with exception of those few summer-evenings at the time of Trümel. There were the two Kordmen, Werkenth, Schauen, Bohmer, Hesse, Giere, Bohmer & one Westphalian more. It was a most lamentable comparison that suggested itself with the times when
