15 July 39 Wednesday evening. At 11 o'clock walked with Baseman who obtained Mr. Wunderlich, Lane fr. Glitz ran, at 5 with Gerlach fr. Lühl, Lahme fr. Böcher & a Mr Hare from Weimar. Allice dangerously ill, all the days troubled concerning the house. It is really painful to see that if we had kept Krize, we should have saved so much money.
Carlsberg Wahr fr. Armswink & Wink fr. Salberg was here & all mine. No money fr. Wirsberg. I often think from much should have been saved without the danger however then it should have been spent in other ways.

 blessed excursion to Schw., intended to speak to T. about it, but he turned away from the subject so all was well & since that day indeed all altered, all on the advance. So happy that no grumbling at the weather, last evening with Frédéric Trench & Capt Bell a while, this morning Mr Gordart introduced himself to me, the evening before pleasing talk with Smithwick & Monday most happily surprised by Mr. Wickes. I am perfectly quiet & happy at home, so that I fancy that all these gentlemen have appeared to me in a vision some time before, & when I get again on the promenade happy there too & my health I think is on the increase. Pleased be the Lord Palmeroli the Italian restorer was brought here at an expence of more than 3000 ducats, he ventured to clean & retouch the background & accessories but dared not touch the figures of the virgin & the child which retain the same tint. This has destroyed the harmony of the general effect. — Some of Correggio's & Guich's

I have heard that when the head of Lysippe's Sonans was placed beside the Christ, the merely physical grandeur of the former, compared with the purely intellectual expression of the latter, reminded every one present of a lions head erect & humanized.

I never looked at Michel Angel's statue of Christ of Neptune's in Fontaine.

7th 39. Saturday To-morrow I am to preach & have not yet committed my sermon to memory, which I shall do afterwards.
At 4 yesterday walked with Wicks & Quarrend, Prentiss & the ladies; on the way there W. talked of the unspeakable state of French government & the conflicts of their society; homeward he took me under his arm & spoke of the difficulties of finding men, made me think of Miller, of Wajant's falling in love with many English girls, went home to see if the speechlets were lost, then to the poem. where with Anders. interesting
